

Dr David Cressey,
NoECCN Medical Lead NoECCN & Consultant Clinical Lead, Freeman Hospital

Consultant in ITU Medicine and Anaesthetics at Freeman Hospital since 2001. I handed over the Clinical Lead role for ICCU Ward 37 at Freeman in 2017 after completing 5 years in post. Appointed as Medical lead for North East and Cumbria area of the NoECCN in August 2015. My areas of interest vary from liver transplant anaesthesia, critical care aspects of severe acute pancreatitis, major vascular anaesthesia and critical care, deep sedation protocols for procedures such as ERCP, to medico-legal and ethical dilemmas, in particular aspects of consent, Deprivation of Liberty Safeguarding (DoLS) and end of life care. I have also led service developments in Outreach, PACU and mortality review. My most recent change of work priority is a new role as Corporate Clinical Director for Patient Safety and Quality for NUTH NHS Trust.
