

Leigh Dunn
Research Nurse in Critical Care and Anaesthesia
Newcastle upon Tyne Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust

Following my graduation from Northumbria University in 2011 as an Adult Nurse I have worked across cardiology and critical care at Newcastle upon Tyne Hospitals Foundation Trust. During this time I completed my Postgraduate Certificate in Cardiology. I started my career in research in 2017, and it is safe to say I've found my calling as a research nurse. I am particularly passionate about ensuring all patients have the opportunity to participate in research, and that it is embedded into the clinical pathway. I am also a keen supporter of NMAHP lead research, championing the breadth of knowledge that can be gained from engaging all disciplines.
